Vegas garage door repair specialist says now is right time to prepare garage doors for Fall and Winter

Owner of Damian Douglas Garage Door Repair Las Vegas says homeowners need to service their garage doors now before it gets cold and become more costly.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

LAS VEGAS, NV, Sept. 13, 2011: Most homeowners do not think about their garage doors as the season changes from summer heat to cool fall and cold winter.

Garage door specialists say that is a mistake. Homeowners should be calling in garage door experts now.

Damian Douglas, owner of Las Vegas based Damian Douglas Garage Door (<http://www.damiandouglasgaragedoor.com>) says this is the right time to call in experts.

“Homeowners who want to make sure their garage doors function properly and without problems should be calling in professionals right now. The experts will check the door for damages and advise on the best way to take care of it.”

He said most homeowners do not realize that excessive heat and summer drought can damage garage doors “so they just assume that nothing needs to be done but that is not correct.”

Mr. Douglas advised homeowners to start with washing their garage doors. “Homeowners don’t normally think of this but washing garage door adds value to the home and it is one of the most important ways to prepare for the fall season. It removes the grime and dirt that accumulate throughout summer”.

“Another thing they can do is check their garage door seal to ensure it is not damaged. Using detergents, homeowners need to wash or clean the seal. Once the seal is dry, they should reapply the seal.”

"Silicone lubricants work best. Resealing gaps or cracks in the seal will save the homeowners money because it prevents warm air from escaping or cold air from coming in during winter," Damian Douglas added.

He said it is important to check the tracks, torsion springs and door rollers for rusts or damages.

"Lubricating the hinges, tracks and rollers is a way to ensure your garage door will open and close smoothly without much friction. Homeowners can use specialized lubricating oil but ordinary motor oil works as well."

He cautioned homeowners against repairing garage door springs saying they are under pressure and can seriously harm or even kill if not handled properly.

"Torsion springs are under pressure and I will advise homeowners to contact professional garage door repair companies like Damian Douglas Garage Door if they think there is a problem with their springs. They can be dangerous if you are not trained to work on them."

"Also, check the garage door opener. Look at the battery and change them if it is necessary. This will ensure they will work without problems. You don't want to find out on a freezing night that your garage door battery needs replacement," he added.
